

Princeton Century Ginko

A close-up photograph of a branch from a Princeton Century Ginkgo tree. The leaves are fan-shaped and exhibit a striking variegation pattern, with bright yellow-green centers and darker green outer margins. The leaves are densely packed on the branch, and some show signs of being recently watered, with small droplets visible on their surfaces.

- Leathery Fan Shaped Leaves
- All Male Cultivar- (Female Varieties Produce a Pungent Odor)
- Upright, Narrow Growth habit
- Fall Color is Golden Yellow
- GROWTH: 40 FT. TALL AND 20 FT. WIDE